——Hor. Epiſt. 1. Lib. 2. Ad Auguſtum.

Cum tot ſuſtineas, & tanta negotia, ſolus,
Res Italas armis tueris, moribus ornes;
Legibus emendes, in publica commoda peccem
Si longo Sermone morer tua tempora, Cæſar;
Romulus & liber Pater, & cum Caſtore Pollux,
Poſt ingentia facta Deorum in Templa Recepti.

Paraphraſed to the Queen.

HAIL mighty Queen, that bear'ſt Imperial Sway,
On whom alone, three weighty Kingdoms lie,
Whoſe Arms abroad with proſperous Force extend,
And ſpight of Foes, your Sovereign Rights defend;
Whilſt Rays at home, dart on thoſe Plains below,
In Beams of Grace from your Majeſtick Brow, (bow,
And charms your Subjects Hearts before your Throne to Your Life reforms the Vices of the Scene,
And by Example pleads Religion in
All with Extatick Duty imitate the QUEEN.
Rais'd to the Top, and Pinnacle of Fame
Secur'd your ſelf of an Eternal Name;
Should I beneath in homely Numbers chime,
And beg your Ear to my inſipid Rhime,
'Twoud make you waſte one Moment of the Day,
And from ſublimer Thoughts divert your Eye.
But as you're foremoſt of all Humane Race,
And God has plac'd you in th' exaltedſt Claſs;
There can't be more nor greater Glory given
Till late you're ſummon'd to th' Imperial Heaven.
There may you land, and view the troubled World,
And ſtruggling Mortals in Diſorder hurl'd:
Of Blood and Rapine, ſtriving for a Prey,
Whoſe fickle Structure ſtands but for a Day,
Whilſt laſting Peace, and never dying Fame
Hath crown'd your Conqueſt with Eternal Reign.

So prays your Majeſty's moſt Obedient Subject,

William Cookſon

To the Courteous

READERS.

Readers,

I Have here presented thee with an Ephemeris for the Year 1711, something different from my former Method, but I hope in a more intelligible Stile to the honest Countryman, for I have made it, as near as I can, for a general Use, that it may be Serviceable to every one, as I hope now it is; I have embellish'd it with Monthly and Annual Predictions from the four Ingresses of the Year; you have also the Sun's Rising and Setting, with the time of High Water at London-Bridge. Here is also the Sun's and Moon's Places to Degrees and Minutes, and the Mutual Aspects of the Planets and Lunations, with all the Eclipses that shall happen this Year; likewise a Diary of the Weather more Correct than in former Years. And for thy Diversion, I have inserted some antient Prophecies, which gives an account of the Destiny of the French King; they seem to represent the unhappy Circumstances of that Nation as in a Glass; but as to the Verity of them, 'tis only Time must discover. If this be kindly accepted, it will another Year encourage me to present thee with something that shall be altogether New and Serviceable; in the Interim I remain your Friend,

William Cookson.

IN-

INTRODUCTIO.

FATE, thou unſeemly Actor on the Stage,
That ſtrik'ſt poor Mortals with thy direful Rage,
Condemns their Pains, and damps that feeble Fire,
Could ſcarce before on fainty Wings aſpire.
Spare thy harſh Cenſure, that makes Science pine,
And ſtops the Current of th' Induſtrious Mind,
Let the leaſt Spark get Courage as it flies
And unobſtructed in a Flame ariſe;
Writings receive their Stamps of Good or Ill,
Are prais'd or cenſur'd to the Reader's Will,
And when they'r launch'd into the Common Air,
Aſſume new Lords, being paſt the Author's Care,
The Speaking-Trumpet of long winded Fame,
Crys loud 'tis born, and goes by ſuch a Name,
Invading Numbers ſtrait the Infant ſeize,
And o'er each Limb with Lynceus Opticks gaze,
Their motly Judgment then e'er long relate,
And ſcare the Author with enſuing Fate:
Thus ſome nice Kickſhaw will our Senſe confound
With different Taſts, that in one Maſs abound,
Some tuneful Member of th' amphibious Crew,
Now 'mongſt the reſt, will my rude Meaſures view,
Catch at each Bubble, and exalt my Crimes
To monſtrous Nothings, to defame my Rhimes;
Another will exert his utmoſt Force
With wide Mouth'd Fury to attack my Proſe,
Carp at each Sentence, and inveigh my Stile,
Such narrow Throats want Speeches ſteept in Oil;
Next comes ſome Champion of undaunted Sprite,
And bids Defiance to Urania's Might,
Blends with Diſgrace, the Pupil and the Muſe,
And what his Brains know nothing of, abuſe.
Thus having ravag'd each Myſterious Part,
They'd with the Author, fain exile the Art;
But thanks my better Stars; the Friendly Gueſs
Of ſome great Patriot does my Hopes increaſe,
Their Eulogies a potent Bulwark ſtands,
Againſt the Batteries of ſuch Pigmy Hands

The Stars of Kings, and by their Rule diſpence,
As they find Reaſon and Neceſſity,
To all degrees of Men their Influence.
'Tis true, ſome find them ſharp and others ſweet,
Right Sons and Rebels diverſly they greet.

As from the Heart in Purple Streams does glide
To all our Limbs a sweet refreshing Tide,
Preserves the Tone, and Vital Warmth sustain,
And then returns unto its Source again;
So from the Throne our Sovereign does dispence
Upon Three Kingdoms, Royal Influence.

Look back, my Muſe, and view that wholſome Care
Of Engliſh Patriots, who did prepare
That juſt harmonious Model of our Law,
Whereby both King and People jointly draw,
Whereby their Goods are ſo commixt together,
One can't be bleſt, but it muſt reach the other.

Unto thoſe People over whom he reigns:
Nor dare the People to invade the Throne,
But Law confines the Subjects and the Crown.

But when those Golden Rules are laid aside,
That for their mutual Safety do provide,
The King or People soon will soar too High
And Government devolve to Anarchy;
This Æquilibrium chang'd it cannot stand,
But Deluge threatens the divided Land:

Who like a Fury does her Malice vent,
And blazons every trivial Discontent,
Adds daily Fuel to each Party's Fire,
And with deluded Zeal their Hearts inspires.
But Satyr, 'tis thy business to assuage,
Those Heats, and lash both Champions off the Stage.

Of the Eclipſes for the Year 1711.

THERE will be ſix Eclipſes this Year, whereof four will be of Sun, and two of the Moon, but ſome of them will be great Eclipſes, yet none of them will be viſible to us the Inhabitants of England, except one of the Sun.

The firſt is of the Sun, January the 7*th*, at 10 a Clock at Night, and therefore not viſible to us.

The ſecond is of the Moon, January the 23*d*, at two a Clock in the Afternoon, but not viſible to us.

The Third is of the Sun, February the 6*th*, at two a Clock in the Afternoon, but not viſible.

The fourth is another of the Sun, July the 4*th*, at ſeven a Clock in the Afternoon, it is a great Eclipſe, and celebrated in the laſt Decanate of the Celeſtial Sign Cancer; it preſages many Diſeaſes, and Seditions, or Riſing of the People, amongſt the Inhabitants of thoſe Countries, ſubject to the Sign Cancer.

The fifth is of the Moon, July the 29*th*, at 10 in the Morning, and not viſible to us.

The ſixth and laſt is of the Sun, December the 28*th*, at 10 in the Morning, but not viſible to us.

Antiquity hath taken notice of ſeveral great Mutations that have happen'd upon, or ſoon after great Eclipſes of the Sun, viz. An. Mun, 3235, on the 26*th* of May, the Sun ſuffered a great Eclipſe. and in that Year Sennacherib, King of Aſſyria, departed from the Siege of Jeruſalem, and had one Hundred and eighty Thouſand Men ſlain in his Army.

An. Mun. 3470. the 19th of April, the Sun was eclipſed at that time Xerxes went with his innumerable Army againſt the Greeks, and was as valiantly beaten at Thermopolis, and Salamine.

An. Mun. 3733, February the 11*th*, another great Eclipſe of the Sun; and not long after Hannibal ſlew fifteen Thouſand Romans: and Ptolomeus Philopater, King of Egypt, overthrew Antiochus.

in the tenth Houſe, or Angle of Honour, glancing his Be nevolent Trine Aſpect unto Jupiter, Venus, Mercury, and th Sun, all of them poſited in the ſecond Houſe; this ſhew that the People in general are now inclin'd to Peace an Tranquility, and that the Trade or Commerce of the Na tion is now, conſidering the Seaſon of the Year, in a ver flouriſhing Condition, and as they are in fixed Signs, i preſages it ſhall ſo continue this Quarter, Mars bein Lord of the Aſcendant, and accidently ſo well poſited, de clares the univerſal Satisfaction of the Inhabitants of thoſ Kingdoms, as alſo their Duty, Loyalty, and willing Sub miſſion to their Superiors: and Venus which is the Lady o the Seventh Houſe, and muſt therefore ſignifie, our Ene mies every, where is here applying to a Trine Aſpect of Mar Lord of the Aſcendant, this declares their Willingneſs, an great Deſire of becoming Supplicants in order to obtain a Peace if poſſible, upon all ſeeming ſpecious Promiſes, and fair Pretences, and this out of Kingly Signs, which ſhows, that there will be made very conſiderable Offers, or great Propoſals, in order to obtain what they have ſo long time wiſh'd for, and are in ſuch great want of thro' their many Loſſes, and the great Neceſſity and Poverty which their miſerable Subjects are reduced to. The Moon's Application to an Oppoſition of Saturn from each others Houſes, looks as if it preſaged ſome great Vexation or Trouble, but as they are in Reception by Houſe, I judge it will not be ſo miſchievous, nor of ſo malignant a Nature as it would have been, becauſe the Reception aforeſaid will ſomething mitigate that Oppoſition, ſo that we conjecture it cannot wholly diſſipate, or put by the Good promiſed by the other Benevolent Poſitions of an Inclination and Deſire of a Peace ſo much talk'd of, but only prolong or detract the time a little if poſſible; tho' to all Judgment that can be deduced, from the Poſition aforeſaid, there will be many great Steps and Overtures made upon that very Subject at or about the beginning of the Year, or rather all this Quarter, many Agents and Emiſſaries, will be employed and receive Orders from there ſeveral reſpective Maſters, to make what Intereſt each one can in their ſeveral Stations, in order to advance ſo great and glorious a Subject as Peace, and withal this Winter's Poſition, gives great Encouragement by theſe Benevolent Aſpects aforeſaid, which will influence the Minds of all ſorts of Men in general to a greater Harmony and Tranquility than heretofore they have been, and ſo I conclude with the Winter Quarter, which is like to old Age, in which Man's radical Moiſture, Oil in a Lamp being extinguiſhed, Death adds a Period to his Days, and is like Winter Storms, which kills weak Herbs and old decay'd Plants, &c. but——

How Fine and Brisk, how Glorious and Gay,
Does Nature's Face look in a ſpringing May;
Trees in new Liveries, and blooming Fruits,
And budding Flowers upbraid their ſluggiſh Roots;

The pretty Birds ſtrain their Harmonious Throats,
To make Woods eccho with a thouſand Notes;
But when with Summer's, and kind Autumn's Heat,
The Earth has made her Furniture compleat,
Comes the ſharp Scythe and Sycle, and cuts down
All the rich Crop from the fair teeming Ground:
So the Sun returning with his warmer Rays,
Shortning our Nights, and lengthning out our Days,
Revives languiſhing Nature, chears the Earth,
And gives the ſmiling Spring its happy Birth.
The frolick Sap by yearly Courſe aſſign'd,
From the full Roots doth ſwell the ſtrutting Rinde;
The Vital Spirit long nouriſh'd at the Heart,
Flys with freſh Fire to each exterior Part,
And there does its prolifick Heat diſplay,
Budds every Branch, and Bloſſoms every Spray.
A thouſand Flowers ſtart from their ſilent Beds,
And court their Parent Sol with grateful Heads.
The pretty Birds make all the Woods and Groves
Re-eccho with the Muſick of their Loves.
Nature in Youthful Innocency dreſs'd,
And blooming Joys are every where expreſs'd.
But ſtill to make the Plenteous Crop compleat,
There is requir'd a more ſubſtantial Heat,
Which Summer brings to ripen Corn and Fruit,
That they may better with our Natures ſuit.
Then does the long expected Harveſt come,
And merrily the Sheaves are carted home.
But ſtrait to Northern Tropick Sol retires,
And preſently Earth's Gallantry expires,
Dark ſlabby Winter haſtens on amain,
Our Days are Nights, and all our Weather Rain:
With pinching Blaſts the fierce Charoico blows,
And we lie buried in Froſts and Snows;
Thus to our Thoughts each Year an Emblem brings
Of the Inconſtancy of Worldly Things,
Thoſe Monarchies which once the World did head,
Are long ſince broke and all their Glories fled,
And from their Ruins later Kingdoms roſe
That had their Age to win, their Hours to loſe;

Natu

Nature is free, exacts no mighty Rent,
Supply her Wants and she'll be well content.
The Poor, the Rich, Noble and Mean shall have E'er long one common Lodging in a Grave;
There all our Feuds, and all our Wants shall cease,
The conquering Worms reduce us all to Peace;
Secure an Interest in the other World,
And let this as it lists be toss'd and hurl'd.
He's Great and Rich enough that well doth die,
And can with Joy expect Eternity.

And now I proceed to consider the Sun's Entrance into the first Scruple of Aries, which according to Rigel, Apho. 3. who saith, Fundamentum principale in revolutionibus annorum mundi, est introitus Solis, in primum punctum Arietis, sunt multa necessaria ad hanc inquisitionem sunt, & scientia multorum, experimentorum & cognitionum superiorum præteritorum temporum, & magnarum Eclipsionum Profectionumque. The Entrance of the Sun in the first Point of Aries, is the principal and main Foundation in judging Revolutions of the Years of the World; yet moreover, there do many things also conduce unto this Disquisition, as the Knowledge of many Experiments, and the right understanding of former and greater Times elapsed; as also the Eclipses, great Conjunctions and Profections. And again, Haly saith, Major tamen potentia, &c. The greatest Power in Signification of the Accidents of the Year, is ever given to the Lord of the Ascendant, we presume that none will be so weak, as to expect an absolute Necessity in or concerning future Accidents, but admit me (as others have before) to give my Astrological Conjectures, which have for many Years been asserted with great Verities; for Plotinus was wont to say, Effectus infra Lunam pene omnes à Cœlo significari, all things below the Moon were in a manner fully signified, or discoverd by the Heavens.; and Avicen, that was no Friend to Astrology, affirmed, Cœlum est Animal Obediens, Heaven is a Creature obedient to God. At the Sol's Ingress the Face of Heavens presents it self, as in the following Scheme. As the Sign Capricornus is upon the Cusp of the Ascendant, and that is a moveable Sign, and the Lord of the Ascendant alſo is in a Moveable, then according ta Bonatus's Rule, Si quidem Aſcendens fuerit ſignum mobile, non durabit illo revolutio, niſi uſque ad introitum ☉ in ♋ & tum oportebit [illegible] æquare ad omnes partes anni, eritque Dominus primæ quartæ cujus fuerit dominum in introitu ☉ in ♈. If the Sign of Aſcending be a moveable Sign, that Revolution endures but till the Sun enters the Sign Cancer, and then you muſt erect Figures for the three other Quarters of the Year; he ſhall be Lord of the firſt Quarter of the Year that hath Dominion at the Sun his Entrance into Aries. So here Capricorn aſcending at this vernal Ingreſs and Saturn being Lord of that Sign, and alſo of the Sign Aquarius, which is intercepted in the Aſcendant, is a certain Rule that he is abſolutely Lord of the Aſcendant, and therefore muſt be the Significator of the People of that Place, where the Figure is erected for. Now Saturn is Retrograde and very Weak, as being in his Detriment, and alſo in the ſixth Houſe; the Moon who is Lady of the ſeventh Houſe, is in Aries, in the ſecond Houſe, ſeparating from a Conjunction of Venus, Lady of the third Houſe, and applying to a Quartile Aſpect of Saturn Lord of the Aſcendant, thoſe Poſitions do not look ſo favourable as at the Tropical Ingreſs they did, ſo that it is now to be feared, that if thoſe good Poſitions which did then attend us, have not by this time happily had ſome good Succeſs, that then the War will be proſecuted with greater Fury, and more Vigour than heretofore, for as now the Patron of War is poſited in the ſeventh Houſe, and that in Leo, in Conjunction with the Dragon's Tail, for Haly ſaith, Mars cum fuerit in revolutione anni in aliquo angulorum quocunque fuerit, excitat bellum. When Mars in any Revolution of the Year, is found in an Angle (whatever it be) he excites Wars; and in another Place, if Mars in any Revolution, being in a fixed and immoveable Sign, he foretelleth violent Contentions of Kings and Outcaſts; and in another Place his Judgment is, that if Mars be in a fixed Sign, he prognoſticateth, that unreaſonable Variances will ariſe without any Cauſe. So that from theſe Poſitions may eaſily be foretold, that at or about this time, we may expect to hear of the renewing of the War, or that ſome Bloody Battel or Conſiderable Enterprize will be entered upon, whereby there will be great Effuſion of Blood, and the Loſs of many brave Men, Saturn here being poſited in Cancer, and in the ſixth Houſe. Haly ſays, Si fuerit Saturnus in Cancro ſignificat multiplicationem aquarum & pluviorum, piſcium, & locuſtarum, & ſi non aſpexerit cum Mars gravibitur frigus & multiplicabuntur locuſtæ, & erunt infirmitates in terris quæ ſunt in divisione ſigni in quo fuerit Saturnus, & in ſigni quæ fuerit in oppoſitione vel quarto aſpectu, ſed ſi fuerit directus minuetur malum. If Saturn be in Cancer, it ſignifies an increaſe of Waters and Rain, of Fiſhes and Locuſts, and many Maladies in thoſe Places which are ſubject to the Sign wherein he is, and in the Sign in Oppoſition, or in ſquare thereof, but if he be direct, the Evil will not be ſo great. Places ſubject to that Sign are, Zealand, Holland, Pruſſia, Tunis, Algier, Conſtantinople.

Constinople, Venice, Scotland, Amsterdam, Magdeberg, Wittenberg, St. Andrews, York, &c. As Saturn does afflict the seventh House by his Proximity, as being within three Degrees of the Cusp thereof, we may reasonably hope the Mischiefs threatned by him, to fall upon our Enemies, as also because Mars is locally there also; and again Saturn casts a Trine Aspect to the second House, as likewise Mars casts another Trine to Aries, which is intercepted in the second House, and Venus and Mars are within two Degrees of a partile Trine Aspect also; the Sun, Moon, and Venus in the second, with Mercury in the Ascendant, are good Positions in the general; and happily secures us from the Insults and Menaces threatned by those two malevolent Planets; but in those Countries where they fall, it is to be feared, their Calamities will be very great, but I shall subscribe to the Opinion of that famous Mathematician and Astrologer, Petrus Pilatus, who in his Præmia to his Diaria, giveth out this learned Judgment: Among the sorts of future Events, as the moving of Heaven, the rising and setting of Signs, the Conjunction of Planets, and Eclipses of Sun and Moon, and such like; in which Points is an infallible and determinate Certainty in respect of Moment, and all Hindrances are removed from them every way, unless God's Predominant Will and Divine Providence shall stay them miraculously and extraordinarily, which nevertheless useth always natural and ordinary Instruments, with much more importing the same Conclusion; his only Exception is, unless Secondary Causes be strangely forestalled of the principal and first Cause, which is God. And so I shall proceed to the Sun's Ingress in the Tropick of Cancer,

Here in this Scheme we find the Celestial Sign Cancer upon the Cusp of the Ascendant, and the Moon who is Lady of the Sign ascending strong in her own House, and Mars Lord of the tenth House, which is the House of Honour, is posited in the second House, so likewise is the part of Fortune, or Lunar Horoscope: From hence we may conjecture, that the State of Affairs, as to all manner of publick Business, viz. Trade and Commerce are now, or about this time in a much more flourishing Condition than heretofore and are

are according to those Positions, very probably like to continue to the Advantage and Honour of our British Nation, and all the Inhabitants thereof in general, as also unto the State of Affairs abroad, they now seem to smile upon us; for as the Moon who is Lady of the Ascendant, is so strong as being in her own House, that presageth the Content and Satisfaction of the People; and then as Mars, who is Lord of the tenth House, which is the Angle of Honour, and the Significator of our most Gracious Queen, I say, as he is posited in the second House in a Regal Fixed Sign, and in Trine to his own House, as also in Conjunction with the part of Fortune; this signifies the mutual Satisfaction and Concordance between the Prince and People, and that the one making all her Interest for the good and welfare of her People, and the other striving with Emulation who shall abound most

moſt in Duty and Loyalty both with Hearts and Aſſiſtance to ſhew their Zeal for the Good and Welfare of the Publick. Venus Lady of the eleventh Houſe, being poſited in the eleventh Houſe in Gemini, an intercepted Sign in Conjunction with Mercury Lord thereof, and likewiſe of the third Houſe, and caſting a Sextile Aſpect to Mars Lord of the tenth Houſe, alſo preſages a firm, ſtrong, and hearty Friendſhip and Correſpondece between her moſt Sacred Majeſty of Great Britain and her Grand Allies, who are entred into a Confederacy to ſuppreſs the ſo much aimed at Univerſal Monarchy, and prevent the long projected Invaſion of all Europe with her Subjects from an abſolute Tyranny and Slavery. Then here is Saturn, who is Lord of the ſeventh Houſe, is very Weak, as being out of all eſſential Dignities, and not only ſo, but in his Detriment, and alſo by Poſition in the twelfth Houſe, which ſhows the Weakneſs of the Enemy, with their low and mean Eſtate that they are reduced to, and that they will not be in any Capacity or Ability to moleſt or diſturb our brave and active Generals, but rather do as for ſome Years they have been forced to, that is, to ſtand upon the Defenſive part, and protect and maintain themſelves by private ſculking and intrenching themſelves, and rather act privately by Treachery, or ſome intended underhand plotting way, than any then any thing fair like a Publick and Brave Enemy, for they are diſpirited, dejected, and quite out of Heart, as is plainly to be ſeen, and ſo let it continue with them and all the Enemies of great Britain and Her Queen; and now I ſhall preſent you with the Face of Heaven at the Sun's Entrance into the Æquinoctial Sign Libra, which preſents it ſelf in the following Scheme.

Here in this Equinoctoial Ingreſs, we find the Sign Gemini upon the Aſcendant, and Mercury Lord of the Aſcendant poſited in the fifth Houſe, caſting a Partile Trine Aſpect to the very Degree aſcending; this ſhows the Vigilance and Care that our Senators and Counſellors take to keep the People in a due and equal Temper, and alſo the Willingneſs of the People to be ſubmiſſive to th Commands of their Superiors, as wiſely and prudently foreſeeing that without ſuch Submiſſion to the Lawful Commands of Authority, all all the Conſtitution would ſoon diſſolve into Anarchy and Confuſion, this is confirmed by the Moon's being in the tenth Houſe or Angle of Honour, and no ways afflicted; bnt ſeparating from a Sextile Aſpect of Jupiter, and immediately applying to a Trine of Mercury, the Moon being Lady of the ſecond Houſe, and ſo poſited, is a very good and ſtrong Argument of the Increaſe of Trade and Commerce, and alſo of the Plenty of Money, whreby the People are freed from thoſe Inſults and Depredations that do attend our Neighbour Nations, by the Calamities of War and Rapine being in the Bowels of of their Country; and alſo our Subjects are capable of enjoying every Man what he calls his own, without any Danger of Dragooning or Commanding it from him by the abſolute Power of their Prince, ſo excellent is our Conſtitntion of Government, that the Subject is both capable capable and willing to contribute chearfully to ſuch Demands as ſhall be laid upon them; the Moon alſo may ſignifie ſome great Overture or Propoſal of a Truce, in order to obtain a happy Peace, becauſe Jupiter in this Figure is Lord of the ſeventh Houſe, which ſignifies publick Enemies, and as the Moon ſeparates from a Sextile of Jupiter, it may preſage ſome great Inclination of the Enemies willingneſs now after ſo much loſs of Blood and Treaſure, to be more Sincere in their Deliberations, and to ſend with a hearty and unfeigned Deſign of obtaining that which they have been ſo long perfidiouſly undermining to get by Fraud, Treachery, and Stealth, and now deſire to obtain by an open, ingenuous and downright Deſign of Publick Submiſſion and Acknowledgment; which does look with the better Face, becauſe the Moon does immediately after Separation from the Sextile of Jupiter aforeſaid, apply to a Trine of Mercury, which alſo doth ſhew a Willingneſs in our Senators, Counſellors, and Generals to accept or comply with ſuch Propoſals, as they think will be for the Honour and Advantage of all the Confederacy in general, the Moon alſo caſting a Trine Aſpect to the Degree aſcending, ſhews an Inclination and Deſire in every one, as if they were all now willing to accept of a general Tranquility, which we wiſh heartily may be obtained upon Honourable Terms for the Good of all her Majeſties Subjects, and Welfare of all Europe; for if ſuch Propoſals at or about this time be not accepted of, and brought to a happy Concluſion, we muſt wait with Patience the only Divine Will and Pleaſure of God in his great Providence, and good and bleſſed time.

And ſo I ſhall conclude with my Aſtrological Judgment of this Year, and preſent you with two or three Prophecies as they are called, and collected from our once famous Countryman and Aſtrologer Mr. William Lilly in his Monarchy and no Monarchy, wherein ſpeaking of France for many years then to come, uſes theſe Words;

Were I intended to weary my ſelf in relating the woful Calamity which ſhall in leſs than half a Century of years befal the French Nation, I might write a large Volume thereof, and tell them a certain Prince, as Religious as a Turk, ſhall overſpread that Peoples moſt fruitful Territories; and all theſe Wars and Deſolation

Deſolations will be occaſioned by the unruly Nobility, who by their Civil Diſſentions ſhall occaſion the Ruine of the French Monarchy. And in another place of the ſame Book he ſays; The King of France ſhall be driven from his own Coaſts and Confines by his own Subjects; for he will exerciſe very great Tyranny againſt his Subjects and the Church of Chriſt, being inſtigated and ſtirred thereto by the Biſhops and Romaniſts, who ſhall ſeduce him and betray him traiterouſly with Bribery of Money. But thoſe Miſdemeanours he doth, will ſeem to be done in favour of Kinſmen or Allies.

Thus far Lilly, but I find very odd and ſurprizing Predictions or rather Prophecies written by Michael Noſtradamus of France, foretelling the Downfal of the French Monarch, tho in a very odd ſtyle and uncouth way of expreſſing himſelf; but whether Fear or what elſe made him uſe ſuch ambiguous Phraſes I know not, I find one or two Stanzas commented upon by Mr. Truſſwell Recorder of Lincoln in his Book call'd The Fortune of France, viz.

Par la Guyenne infinite d'Angiois
Occuperront par nom d'Angle Acquitain.

In Engliſh;

An infinite Number of Engliſh ſhall poſſeſs Guienne, by the name of Engliſh Acquitain.

And this I am ſure there was never any attempt to do ſince the time that Noſtradamus liv'd, nor any conſiderable War betwixt the two Nations, till of late years, in which the Engliſh ſhould land; poſſibly the French might receive them as their welcome Deliverers from Slavery, rather than as inſulting Conquerors. But that which has often ſurpriz'd me with the moſt pleaſant Imaginations in the World, as the moſt ridiculous of all thoſe Prophecies, is that which is now as much the occaſion of my Wonder.

Celuy qui la principauté
Tiendra par grade cruauté
A la fin, verra grand Phalange
Par coup de feu tres dangereux,
Par accord pourroit fair mieux,
Autrement boir ſue d'Orange.

In Engliſh,

He who ſhall with great Cruelty hold the Principality, in the concluſion

conclusion ſee a great Army ruin'd by a moſt dangerous Fire-blow, he might do better to make an Accord, otherwiſe he ſhall drink the Juice of the Orange.

Here is firſt a plain Deſcription of the French Dominion, which is certainly carried on with the greateſt Cruelty, and managed with the moſt horrible Oppreſſion, where-ever their Arms have made a Conqueſt; and for their own People they are moſt abſolute Slaves. One may ſay of France as of the Grand Signior, Where-ever his Horſe ſets his Foot the Graſs will not grow again in ſeven years. So great are the Deſolations of Germany, eſpecially Alſace, and all that pleaſant, populous and fertile Country along the Rhine, that there is ſcarce an Inhabitant or a Village left for many Leagues together, to make complaint of the barbarous Inhumanity of the French Armies, who have left behind 'em unexampled Inſtances of their Cruelty, in their Spoils and Ravages, as makes the Country look like the Fields of Sodom, when firſt cover'd with the Aſhes of thoſe Flaming Cities, ſuch Cruelty of War as exceed all the moſt ſavage Proceedings of the Ottoman Family, and the moſt Barbarous Conquerours among the Heathens. [But he ſhall ſee his great Army ruin'd by the moſt dangerous Blow of Fire.] Not improbable; Heaven oft meaſures by the Lex Talionis; Fire ſhall deſtroy thoſe who have deſtroy'd ſo many innocent Millions by Fire: but by this Fire he ſeems to intimate the Force of Gun-powder, the now common and terrible Fewel of the horrid Engines of War. [He might do better to make an accord.] Certainly this would have been wholſome Counſel for France, who doubtleſs might have had honourable Terms of Peace, had they proſecuted it in good earneſt, and not rather as a Blind to lull ſome of her Neighbours aſleep, that ſhe might the more eaſily cut the Throats of others: tho how ſafe ſuch a Peace, as muſt have left France in poſſeſſion of ſo great Conqueſts, or any part of them, muſt have been to the reſt of the European Princes and States, I leave to the determination of Politicians. But ſince France has refuſed thoſe Propoſals, it follows [That he muſt drink the Juice of Orange.] This I have often wonder'd at, but now it ſeems to carry in it not only a very ſerious but ſignificant Meaning: for by the Orange muſt of neceſſity be meant meant the moſt illuſtrious Prince of Orange (our late King) and by France drinking the Juice of the Orange if an Accord be not made, cannot be meant any other thing, but that to her diſadvantage ſhe ſhall feel the Force and Power of that great Prince, deſign'd for Greatneſs and Wonders, as ſhe has ſince more than once found to her coſt. After that France look for nothing but Domeſtick Inſurrections and Rebellions from a People laden with the intolerable Burden of War: which might have been happily ended long before, if the Obſtinacy and Ill Genius of ſome Great Men, driven headlong by by their Deſtiny, had not prevented it.

I might add, to render theſe Conjectures more probable, many other Rational Arguments, as that old and ſo often verified Prophecy of the Poet.

Ad generum Cereris ne cæde & ſanguine pauci
Deſcendunt Reges, ſinec ficca morte Tyranni.
Unbloody of the Shades below.

And the dreadful Inſtances of Philip of Spain, and the three Henrys, Second, Third and Fourth, of France, who all aim'd at the Monarchy of the Weſt, are fatal Examples of the Tragical Ends of vain Ambition after unlawful Sovereignty and Empire; and certainly they who will ſacrifice the Blood and Treaſure of ſo many Innocents, and the Intereſt of all other Princes and States to their own inordinate Deſires of Ruling, cannot in common reaſon but believe that they have almoſt as many Enemies as there are Men in the World, and cannot expect a mild or gentle Deſtiny: for there is in all Mankind, Princes and People, a Natural Love for their Liberty, Life, Property and Religion, and when they apprehend that all theſe are in danger of being invaded, and raviſh'd from them by Force of Arms, they will not only combine pro Aris & Focis, but reſolutely diſpute the Quarrel with their Lives and Fortunes; and the Tyrants ſtill live in a perpetual fear of a Scævola or a Ravilliac, to endeavour by a ſudden Blow to free the World as well as themſelves from the Danger of Slavery, and to revenge thoſe Murders, Rapines, Miſeries and Deſolations which have been the Reſults of ſuch Ambitious Attempts. Whilſt the Prince that admits the Law to be an Equilibrium to his Grandeur

Grandeur, lives calm and ſerene, free from all Anxieties, enjoying all Worldly Felicities, with the conſtant and loyal Prayers of all his Subjects for his long Life and happy Reign, as we now do for her moſt Sacred Majeſty Qu. ANNE, whom God long preſerve as a Bleſſing to theſe Nations.

The END.

At the Bee-Hive and Globe, about the middle of Houndſditch, between Biſhopſgate and Aldgate, London, Liveth the Author,

WHO by God's bleſſing on his many Years Practice in Phyſick hath attained to ſeveral rare Secrets, whereby he is capable of Curing the moſt malignant Diſeaſes incident to Men, Women, or Children, if curable; and if not curable, he gives Eaſe in the greateſt Extremity of Pain in a very ſhort time, as can be atteſted by many Hundreds who have found Relief and Benefit by his Medicines, when left off by others. Likewiſe the Venereal Diſeaſe, with all or any of its Symptoms, too many here to be named, he ſafely and ſpeedily cures, with the greateſt Eaſe and Privacy imaginable. And in Aſtrology he reſolves all lawful Queſtions that Reaſon can require, or Art warrant; as Life long or ſhort, and what part moſt Happy; if ever be Rich, and by what means; if marry the Perſon deſired, or if ever marry; Goods Loſt, if recoverable or not: if good to go the intended Journey or Voyage: if obtain the Place of Preferment; Friends true or falſe. With all other Queſtions in general, he anſwers to the great Satisfaction of Thouſands, both in City and Country, who have applied themſelves to him for Advice. He alſo Calculates Nativities with the greateſt Exactneſs, and Teaches the whole Art of Aſtrology in all its parts by the beſt Rules Extant.
